Notice of Ransomware Incident at Consolidated Subsidiary

We hereby announce that the internal servers of YAC GARTER CO., LTD. (Head Office: Ome City, Tokyo, President: Toshihiko Ito, hereinafter referred to as “Garter”), a consolidated subsidiary of our company, were subject to unauthorized access by a third party, resulting in a system failure caused by ransomware infection. We sincerely apologize for the concern and inconvenience this incident may cause to our business partners and other stakeholders.

1. Discovery of the Incident

In the early hours of Tuesday, November 25, 2025 (Japan time), Garter detected abnormalities in its internal servers. Subsequent investigation confirmed infection by ransomware.

2. Current Status and Future Response

I. The affected servers have been isolated from external networks, including those within our corporate group. With the assistance of external experts, we are currently conducting a detailed assessment, investigating the cause, and working toward recovery.

II. At this time, no leakage of personal information, customer data, or other confidential information held by Garter has been confirmed.

3. Impact on Business Performance

Our company currently expects the impact of this incident on our consolidated business results for fiscal year 2025 to be minor. Should any matters requiring disclosure arise, we will promptly provide updates.
